

BLANKETS! COMFORTERS! SAVINGS!

HERE IS A MONEY-SAVING EVENT. The economics are due to the purchases made from foremost manufacturers last April, when prices were way down. They have recently been delivered and immediately went on sale. If we had to buy them now we would have to pay at least twenty-five per cent more, yet we have not allowed this fact to influence our selling price in the least.

BLANKETS

Blankets of every kind, soft and fleecy, of wool and cotton. Good, durable, long wearing, well made Blankets, made by men who only know how to make good Blankets.

A special is a full size 10-4 Blanket (not a small size) with overcast edges, in white, grey and tan, for 49c.

Others in the large sizes at 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $1.98 and $2.98, in grey and white, also beautiful snowy white Blankets as high as $11.00.

COMFORTERS

Comforters that are filled with clean, white, new cotton, being entirely free from waste or shoddy. By a special process the cotton is carded in one sheet, making the Comforter fluffy and light. Every Comforter thoroughly antiseptic.

A special is one with silklike both sides, 64 by 72 inches in size, at 98c.

Others in fine silklike, saten and mercerized saten tops and linings at from 98c to $3.98 each.

Special Values in Bed Spreads.

The holders of licenses to sell intoxicating liquors in Montpelier are somewhat stirred up over the announcement by Mayor Corry that he shall request them to close their places of business Wednesday, October 4, Centennial day. The holders of licenses will strenuously object to doing this unless every place of business in the city is also closed. One paragraph of the license law provides that "the mayor of a city or the selectmen of a town may in case of riot or great public excitement order licensees not to sell, or furnish intoxicating liquor, for a period not exceeding three consecutive days." The dealers in that city claim that no such condition will arise on that day and as the law does not compel them to close, it is probable their places of business will be open.

Hadn't Ridden in the Old Hearse.

The following story is told of Judge G. W. Green, who for many years was judge of the probate court at St. Albans, Vt.

At the annual town meeting the purchase of a new town hearse had been voted, and a committee appointed to canvass the townspeople for subscriptions. One of the committee thought it would be an excellent plan to have the judges name at the head of the list, and to that end approached him. The judge absolutely refused to make a contribution, and, when questioned as to the reason, said, "Why should I subscribe towards a new hearse when I haven't ridden in the old one yet?"—Boston Herald.
